No discussion about Obamacare would be complete without addressing its “Elephant in The Room” -- the utter nonsense and criminal behavior of our current (AMA) American Medical Association’s Medical Monopoly System of Allopathic Medicine implemented by the practice of MD’s (Medical Doctors) abetted by the pharmaceutical industry.

The AMA MD Monopoly Allopathic Medical System only offers treatments and medicines which address symptoms. They are not designed to prevent or address the causes of illness and disease, because all MD prescribed medicines are designed by the drug companies to “alleviate symptoms” but are specifically and intentionally not designed to cure the underlying medical condition that causes the symptoms. This is how the allopathic medical approach works philosophically.

The one place that Allopathic Medicine excels, and should be applauded, is in the treatment of injuries and especially emergency medical treatments.

However, it is this “against-symptom” approach and philosophy that both defines and fundamentally limits the AMA’s school of “Allopathic Medicine”, its practice and understanding, which astonishingly provides no education in nutrition as prevention and medicine, while MD's, hospitals, and pharmaceuticals continue to injure, infect, and kill millions.

What we still have is an antiquated 19th century medical monopoly system that the AMA has fought for, and destroyed lives and disparaged others to win.

One of the signers of the Declaration of Independence perhaps best summarized the situation we face today, a prediction from over 200 years ago, from Dr. Benjamin Rush whom George Washington appointed as the first US Surgeon General, "The Constitution of this Republic should make special provisions for Medical Freedom as well as Religious Freedom. To restrict the art of healing to one class of men and deny equal privileges to others will constitute the Bastille of medical science. All such laws are un-American and despotic."

To the extent that Obamacare mandates allopathic medical treatment, isn't it a law that is un-American and despotic according to the first US Surgeon General's criteria?

Tax exempt foundations even raise many millions towards curing one disease or another, diseases which by definition cannot be actually cured using the current allopathic medical system treatments and prescriptions, and diseases for which a cure is not actually desirable in a "medical industry" that profits from long term sickness maintenance drugs -- as does the related "futile research industry" -- instead of what we need in an actually effective "health industry".

For example, Jerry Lewis was fired for trying to bring out the nutritional cure for Muscular Dystrophy that has been proven over 50 years to work in all vertebrate animals including humans.

Anyone can hear that story explained on one of his Youtube talks by Naturopathic Doctor Joel Wallach, eg, [Dr. Wallach's account of this can be heard here: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=naYg26GaS4M>

This is why Jerry Lewis no longer does the annual telethon for the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) like he did for so many years, ie, he gave them Wallach's proof that Muscular Dystrophy is a nutritional disease from a Selenium trace mineral deficiency, a disease that has already been eliminated in animals for 50 years under other names (stiff lamb disease, white muscle disease, et al), piles of documents proving it works for humans too; Selenium supplementation prevents and reverses the condition, cures it gradually when the person gets all 90 essential nutrients each day plus extra Selenium.

Jerry Lewis thought he would be famous for successfully releasing this discovered and proven Muscular Dystrophy cure to the world after all those years of fund-raising telethons, but, after he gave the proof to the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) medical advisory board of MD's, in response the organization fired him and apparently have a contractual gag order where he still cannot discuss it. After that in 2011 he stopped being on the telethon because he had been fired, his contract terminated apparently to protect the nonprofit goose that lays their golden eggs.

That the AMA allopathic Medical Doctor community would censor such information from the public in such a cruel and cynical way in using such a trusted tax exempt research foundation, is beyond criminal.

How many other such medical research foundations are ignoring their chosen disease's similarly proven nutritional cause and remedy? Cancers including leukemia, heart disease, Alzheimer like symptoms, multiple sclerosis, etc, 900 diseases humans still get, have already been eliminated in animals 50 years ago using nutritional supplements alone!

But since that knowledge would put the "futile research industry" out of business, they suppress the truth to preserve their jobs.

From the changes in their website it appears that the MDA response has been to simply obfuscate the issue by breaking down classifications of the affliction into myriad seemingly unrelated subcategories, to better foster target potential "sickness maintenance" medications apparently, while totally ignoring and suppressing the facts they were given about the proven nutritional deficiency nature of the disease and its already proven nutritional cure.

This is an example of “what we are up against” in sharing Dr. Wallach’s vital 90forLife health message, in spite of its being based on over half century of research with successfully demonstrated results in humans and all other vertebrates.

This callous, cruel, corrupt, and ineffective AMA MD Allopathic “medical practice” contrasts with other kinds of physicians, like the Naturopathic school of medicine which does include nutrition and herbs; where its knowledge offers prevention and where treatments are actually designed as remedies for causes to the diseases, unlike allopathic pharmaceutical medicines which are only designed to relieve symptoms without any designed intention to actually cure the underlying cause of the disease or condition.

Most people do not know this very simple and very key major limitation to Allopathic Medicine, the kind of medicine practiced by MD’s, that by definition it is not looking at causes and cures of diseases but only at how to determine and alleviate symptoms. Ask your MD if this is not true and watch their eyes carefully while listening to the response. Ask your MD how much training in nutrition they got in medical school.

This basic knowledge about our ineffective and costly Allopathic Medical Monopoly System has been obscured and obfuscated because of the level of institutionalized information control by the current AMA–Pharma–US revolving door corruption and its pervasive influence on the politics and the public via the news, education, and entertainment media.

No wonder our US health care system is so ineffective and costly, and such a mess, even before Obamacare!

Even if everyone were to be covered under an ineffective and corrupt medical system like this, wouldn’t that just guarantee to keep people sick in order to profit the existing allopathic medical monopoly doctors and hospitals and insurance and drug companies, but with additional US Government complicity due to the mandatory nature of Obamacare?

This predicament is the result of the combined effects of public ignorance with collusion and corruption between the medical and pharmaceutical industries, insurance companies, medical research organizations, and government regulatory agencies.

The only sure way we can protect our health is to take personal responsibility for it, by researching and learning the appropriate information to ensure our optimum health and longevity.

What is so amazing is that the animal feed industry already spent billions in nutrition research over decades, in addition to millions from the government, and learned over 50 years ago how to keep livestock (and lab animals, zoo animals, pets) healthy and disease free by using nutritional supplements alone, those which contain the proper amount per species and body weight of the 90 essential nutrients discovered which all vertebrate animals need for optimum health and longevity, including humans. This was required to keep the cost of animal products down because there is no health insurance for animals.

Using this knowledge and nutritional supplements alone, over the past 50 years the life spans of lab animals has been increased two and threefold, with the average lifespan of pets and zoo animals similarly increased, and over 900 diseases have been eliminated.

It is disgusting, amazing, and encouraging at the same time; that the 900 chronic diseases which still plague humans were eliminated over 50 years ago in animals using the 90forLife nutritional supplements alone, but your MD will not tell you this in order to protect their allopathic medical monopoly.

The identities of these 90 essential nutrients that all vertebrates need for optimum health and longevity were determined in the 1960's, under a $25 million grant over twelve years from the National Institutes for Health and carried out in cooperation with the National Center for Disease Control at Emory University in Atlanta, by the very same Dr. Joel Wallach who at that time was a world renown veterinarian and pathologist who did over 20,000 autopsies with extensive lab work on millions of tissue samples from over 450 species of animals including human beings as part of that study.

In those autopsies on natural deaths, even on humans over 100 years of age, he showed in every case they actually died from one specific nutritional deficiency or another, that all deaths from “natural causes” are actually from one nutritional deficiency disease or another!

After publishing 75 peer reviewed scientific articles on his discoveries, about how this knowledge should be applied to human beings, including the previously unknown role of rare earth trace minerals in human metabolism, without any significant success in getting that message accepted by the human medical community, in 1978 Dr. Wallach became a Naturopathic physician to bring this knowledge to human patients.

Since then he has proven the 90forLife nutritional supplements produce the same results in humans, eliminating rapidly such chronic conditions as arthritis, diabetes, overweight, high blood pressure, etc, and healing and preventing diseases such as heart disease, stroke, cancer, etc., which, again, have already been eliminated in animals using the same knowledge!

Wallach has even sued the FDA and won, a record two times in fact, after providing the judge with convincing evidence compelling the FDA to approve wording relating to 1) the trace mineral Selenium as effective against cancer and that it produces cancer fighting substances in the human body (seleno-enzymes that activate higher immune system levels) and, 2) that Omega-3 Essential Fatty Acids play a role in prevention of stroke.

All we have to do is make sure we get enough of the 90 essential nutrients that all vertebrates need, in order to eliminate diseases and live long healthy lives!

Dr. Wallach’s research, presented among his books written for the public, includes discussion of nutritional factors responsible for seemingly anomalous long human life spans in several surviving 20th century subcultures around the world where their lifestyles and geology provides them all 90 essential nutrients including the 60 minerals and trace minerals. As a result they have recorded healthy life spans upwards of 120, 140, and even over 160 years of age.

The problem is, for many reasons including geographic variability and soil depletion, it is not normally physically possible to get all 90 essential nutrients from our foods these days, especially the 60 minerals and trace minerals included, so nutritional supplementation is required for optimum health.

Even organic produce is not fertilized with the 60 essential minerals that humans need, so supplementation is the only solution.

For this reason over the past decades Dr. Wallach has written a dozen books for the public and has been promoting the Youngevity line of nutritional supplements which he developed using his knowledge as a uniquely qualified physician with a lifetime of experience combining disciplines of agricultural soil sciences, veterinary science, forensic laboratory pathological analysis, and human medicine. His first book, "Let's Play Doctor", is a must-have for every family medical library with hundreds of medical conditions explained with corresponding nutritional supplement remedies listed. His latest book just released, called "Epigenetics", explains how genes are activated and suppressed by nutritional and environmental factors, and therefore how many diseases thought to be genetic are actually not, but in fact are nutritional deficiency diseases.

Dr. Wallach is revolutionizing the "gene theory of disease" just as Pasteur revolutionized the "germ theory of disease", but with even greater potential benefits to humanity.

Dr. Wallach sells various supplement products including Youngevity. This excerpt is from a seller of these products found at the following link: <http://www.global-emergency-alert-response.net/AMR.html>
